The idol was made from natural clay and eco-friendly colours, minimizing the risk of water pollution. After immersion, the clay-rich water was appropriately utilized for tree plantation, completing the cycle of a sustainable celebration. The programme also created awareness about the adverse environmental effects of conventional idol immersion and encouraged participants to adopt eco-friendly practices during festivals. The ceremony concluded with a message of devotion, unity, environmental consciousness, and social responsibility, demonstrating that cultural traditions and environmental sustainability can go hand in hand.

Development and Evaluation Of Herbal Candy As A Natural Remedy For Pain in Dysmenorrhea

Vaibhav S. Adhao^{1*}, Mahesh B. Narkhede², Gautam D. Mehetre³, Divya S. Mohale⁴, Shubhangi N. Kakade⁵, Priyanka S. Lande⁶, Sarin A. Chavan⁷ and Jaya P. Ambhore⁸

Abstract

Background: Dysmenorrhea is a common gynecological condition characterized by painful menstrual cramps that adversely affect the quality of life of women. Conventional therapies such as non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) provide symptomatic relief but may produce adverse effects with prolonged use. Herbal medicines offer a safer alternative due to their analgesic, anti-inflammatory, and antispasmodic properties.

Objective: To develop and evaluate a polyherbal candy as a natural remedy for the management of dysmenorrhea.

Materials and Methods: Powdered Zingiber officinale, Foeniculum vulgare, Cinnamomum verum, Curcuma longa, Trachyspermum ammi, and Prunus dulcis were used to make herbal candies. The molding procedure was used to create five formulations (F1-F5), which were then assessed for their organoleptic qualities, weight variation, hardness, friability, moisture content, pH, dissolving characteristics, stability, and analgesic action.

Results: All formulations exhibited acceptable physicochemical characteristics and stability. The optimized formulation demonstrated satisfactory hardness, low friability, suitable moisture content, and immediate dissolution behavior. Antalgic evaluation revealed a

Abstract

Background: The increasing prevalence of diabetes in both developed and developing countries have challenged scientists to the discovery of various therapeutic agents that can be used to ensure efficient treatment and management of diabetes. Synthetic anti-diabetic drugs are widely used for the management of diabetes mellitus, but they possess several limitations that may reduce their long-term effectiveness and patient compliance.

Objective: To provide natural and cost-effective alternative for synthetic antidiabetic drugs by exploring the synergistic effect of herbs in diabetes treatment and management.

Methods: Polyherbal Formulations (F1, F2, F3, F4 and F5) containing powder of Moringa oleifera and Carica papaya leaves were prepared and evaluated for physicochemical properties and in vivo antidiabetic activity.

Results: All formulations showed acceptable characteristics. Formulation F3 exhibited the best physicochemical properties, stability, and antidiabetic activity.

Conclusion: The optimized polyherbal formulation (F3) demonstrated effective antidiabetic activity and may serve as a safe and

THE ROLE OF PRENATAL NUTRITION IN PREVENTING GASTROINTESTINAL DISORDERS IN NEWBORNS: A BIOCHEMICAL ASSESSMENT

Prof. Kachu Kothale¹, Dr. Dhyanraj Dilip Deshmukh², Dr. Nitin Jain³, Dr. Gajendra Singh⁴, Dr. Vaibhav S. Adhao⁵, Dr. Venugopal Reddy⁶

ABSTRACT
Background: Prenatal nutrition plays an important role in fetal growth and early gastrointestinal (GI) development. However, limited evidence is available on the variations in maternal nutrient intake during pregnancy translate into specific gastrointestinal outcomes in newborns.
Objective: To examine the association between prenatal nutritional intake and gastrointestinal disorders in newborns, and to identify biochemical markers that may mediate this relationship.
Methods: This observational analytical study included 240 mother-infant pairs from a tertiary maternity hospital. Maternal nutrition was assessed using a food frequency questionnaire and 24-hour recall. Maternal blood and cord blood samples were analysed for nutrient levels, inflammation markers, and gut integrity indicators. Neonatal GI disorders were diagnosed from clinical records. Logistic regression and mediation analysis were used to evaluate associations.
Results: Most mothers were aged 25-30 years and were from middle- or low-income households. While many had a normal BMI, anaemia was common. Newborns showed generally healthy birth outcomes, including normal gestational age, birth weight, and Apgar scores. However, a considerable proportion of mothers had inadequate intake of protein, iron, and vitamin D. Infants born to mothers with these deficiencies were more likely to develop GI disorders. Cord blood findings showed elevated markers of intestinal stress and inflammation among affected neonates, suggesting that poor maternal nutrition may influence GI vulnerability before birth.
Conclusion: Poor prenatal nutrition, particularly low iron, protein, and vitamin D, increases the risk of gastrointestinal disorders in newborns.

♦ बुलढाणा, ७ ऑगस्ट
मलकापूर येथील डॉ. राजेंद्र गोडे कॉलेज ऑफ फार्मसीने शैक्षणिक गुणवत्तेच्या दिशेने आणखी एक ऐतिहासिक टप्पा गाठला आहे. महाविद्यालयाला युजीसीसी कडून प्रतिष्ठेचा स्वायत्त

दर्जा प्राप्त झाला आहे. हा मान मिळवणारे हे महाविद्यालय विदर्भातील चौथे तर संत गाडगे बाबा अमरावती विद्यापीठाच्या अंतर्गत दुसरे औषधनिर्माणशास्त्र महाविद्यालय ठरले आहे.

या यशाने विद्यार्थ्यांसाठी आधुनिक, उद्योगाभिमुख आणि संशोधनकेंद्रित शिक्षणाचे नवे दालन खुले झाले आहे. स्व. डॉ. राजेंद्र गोडे यांच्या दूरदृष्टीतून

स्थापन झालेल्या या महाविद्यालयाने अल्पावधीतच मोठी झेप घेतली. एन.ए.सी. मानांकन प्राप्त असलेल्या या संस्थेने आता एन.बी.ए.मानांकनासाठीही तयारी सुरू केली आहे. चालू शैक्षणिक वर्षात ५ बहुराष्ट्रीय फार्मा कंपन्यांनी येथील विद्यार्थ्यांना रोजगार दिला आहे.

► सुपर भारत : प्रतिनिधी

मलकापूर/अकोला : मलकापूर येथील डॉ. राजेंद्र गोडे कॉलेज ऑफ फार्मसीला स्वायत्त (Autonomous) महाविद्यालयाचा दर्जा प्राप्त झाला आहे. हा दर्जा मिळविणारे हे विदर्भातील चौथे, तर संत गाडगे बाबा अमरावती विद्यापीठाशी संलग्न दुसरे फार्मसी महाविद्यालय ठरले आहे. या निर्णयामुळे महाविद्यालयाच्या शैक्षणिक गुणवत्तेला नवी दिशा मिळणार असून विद्यार्थ्यांना आधुनिक, कौशल्यधारित व उद्योगाभिमुख शिक्षणाच्या अधिक संधी उपलब्ध होणार आहेत.

स्व. डॉ. राजेंद्र गोडे यांच्या दूरदृष्टीतून स्थापन झालेल्या या महाविद्यालयात २००५ मध्ये बी.फार्म. अभ्यासक्रम सुरू करण्यात आला. त्यानंतर एम.फार्म., डी.फार्म., पीएच. डी. संशोधन केंद्र तसेच एम.फार्म. च्या विविध शाखा सुरू करण्यात

आल्या. २०२६ मध्ये अत्याधुनिक 3D Printing Lab सह Centre of Excellence सुरू करण्यात आले आहे. संशोधन, नवोपक्रम आणि आधुनिक तंत्रज्ञानाच्या वापरामुळे महाविद्यालयाने फार्मसी शिक्षण क्षेत्रात स्वतंत्र ओळख निर्माण केली आहे. महाविद्यालयाला स्वायत्त दर्जा मिळाल्यामुळे उद्योग व संशोधनाच्या गरजेनुसार अभ्यासक्रम विकसित करणे, कौशल्यधारित शिक्षणाला चालना देणे, परीक्षा व मूल्यमापन पद्धती अधिक प्रभावी करणे तसेच मूल्यवर्धित व प्रमाणणत्र अभ्यासक्रम

सुरू करणे शक्य होणार आहे. विद्यार्थ्यांना प्रकल्पाधारित शिक्षण, इंटरनशिप, उद्योग प्रशिक्षण, संशोधन व उद्योजकतेच्या अधिक संधी उपलब्ध होतील. "स्वायत्त दर्जा हा केवळ प्रशासकीय बदल नसून शैक्षणिक उत्कृष्टता, संशोधन, नवोपक्रम आणि जागतिक स्पर्धात्मकतेला नवी दिशा देणारा ऐतिहासिक टप्पा आहे."

असे प्राचार्य डॉ. प्रशांत देशमुख यांनी सांगितले. इंदिरा बहुउद्देशीय शिक्षण संस्था, बुलढाणाचे अध्यक्ष योगेंद्रजी गोडे यांनी महाविद्यालयाचे अभिनेंदन केले. संस्थेचे पदाधिकारी, प्राचार्य, प्राध्यापक, कर्मचारी, विद्यार्थी, माजी विद्यार्थी व पालक यांच्या एकत्रित प्रयत्नांचे हे फलित असल्याचे त्यांनी सांगितले. स्वायत्त महाविद्यालय म्हणजे विद्यापीठाशी संलग्न राहूनही अभ्यासक्रम, परीक्षा व मूल्यमापनाबाबत महाविद्यालयाला अधिक स्वातंत्र्य मिळणे होय. पदवी मात्र संबंधित विद्यापीठाचीच राहते.

विद्यार्थ्यांना मिळणारी पदवी ही संबंधित विद्यापीठाचीच राहते; परंतु शिक्षणाची गुणवत्ता, अभ्यासक्रम आणि मूल्यमापनात महाविद्यालयाला आवश्यक सुधारणा करण्याचे अधिकार मिळतात.
